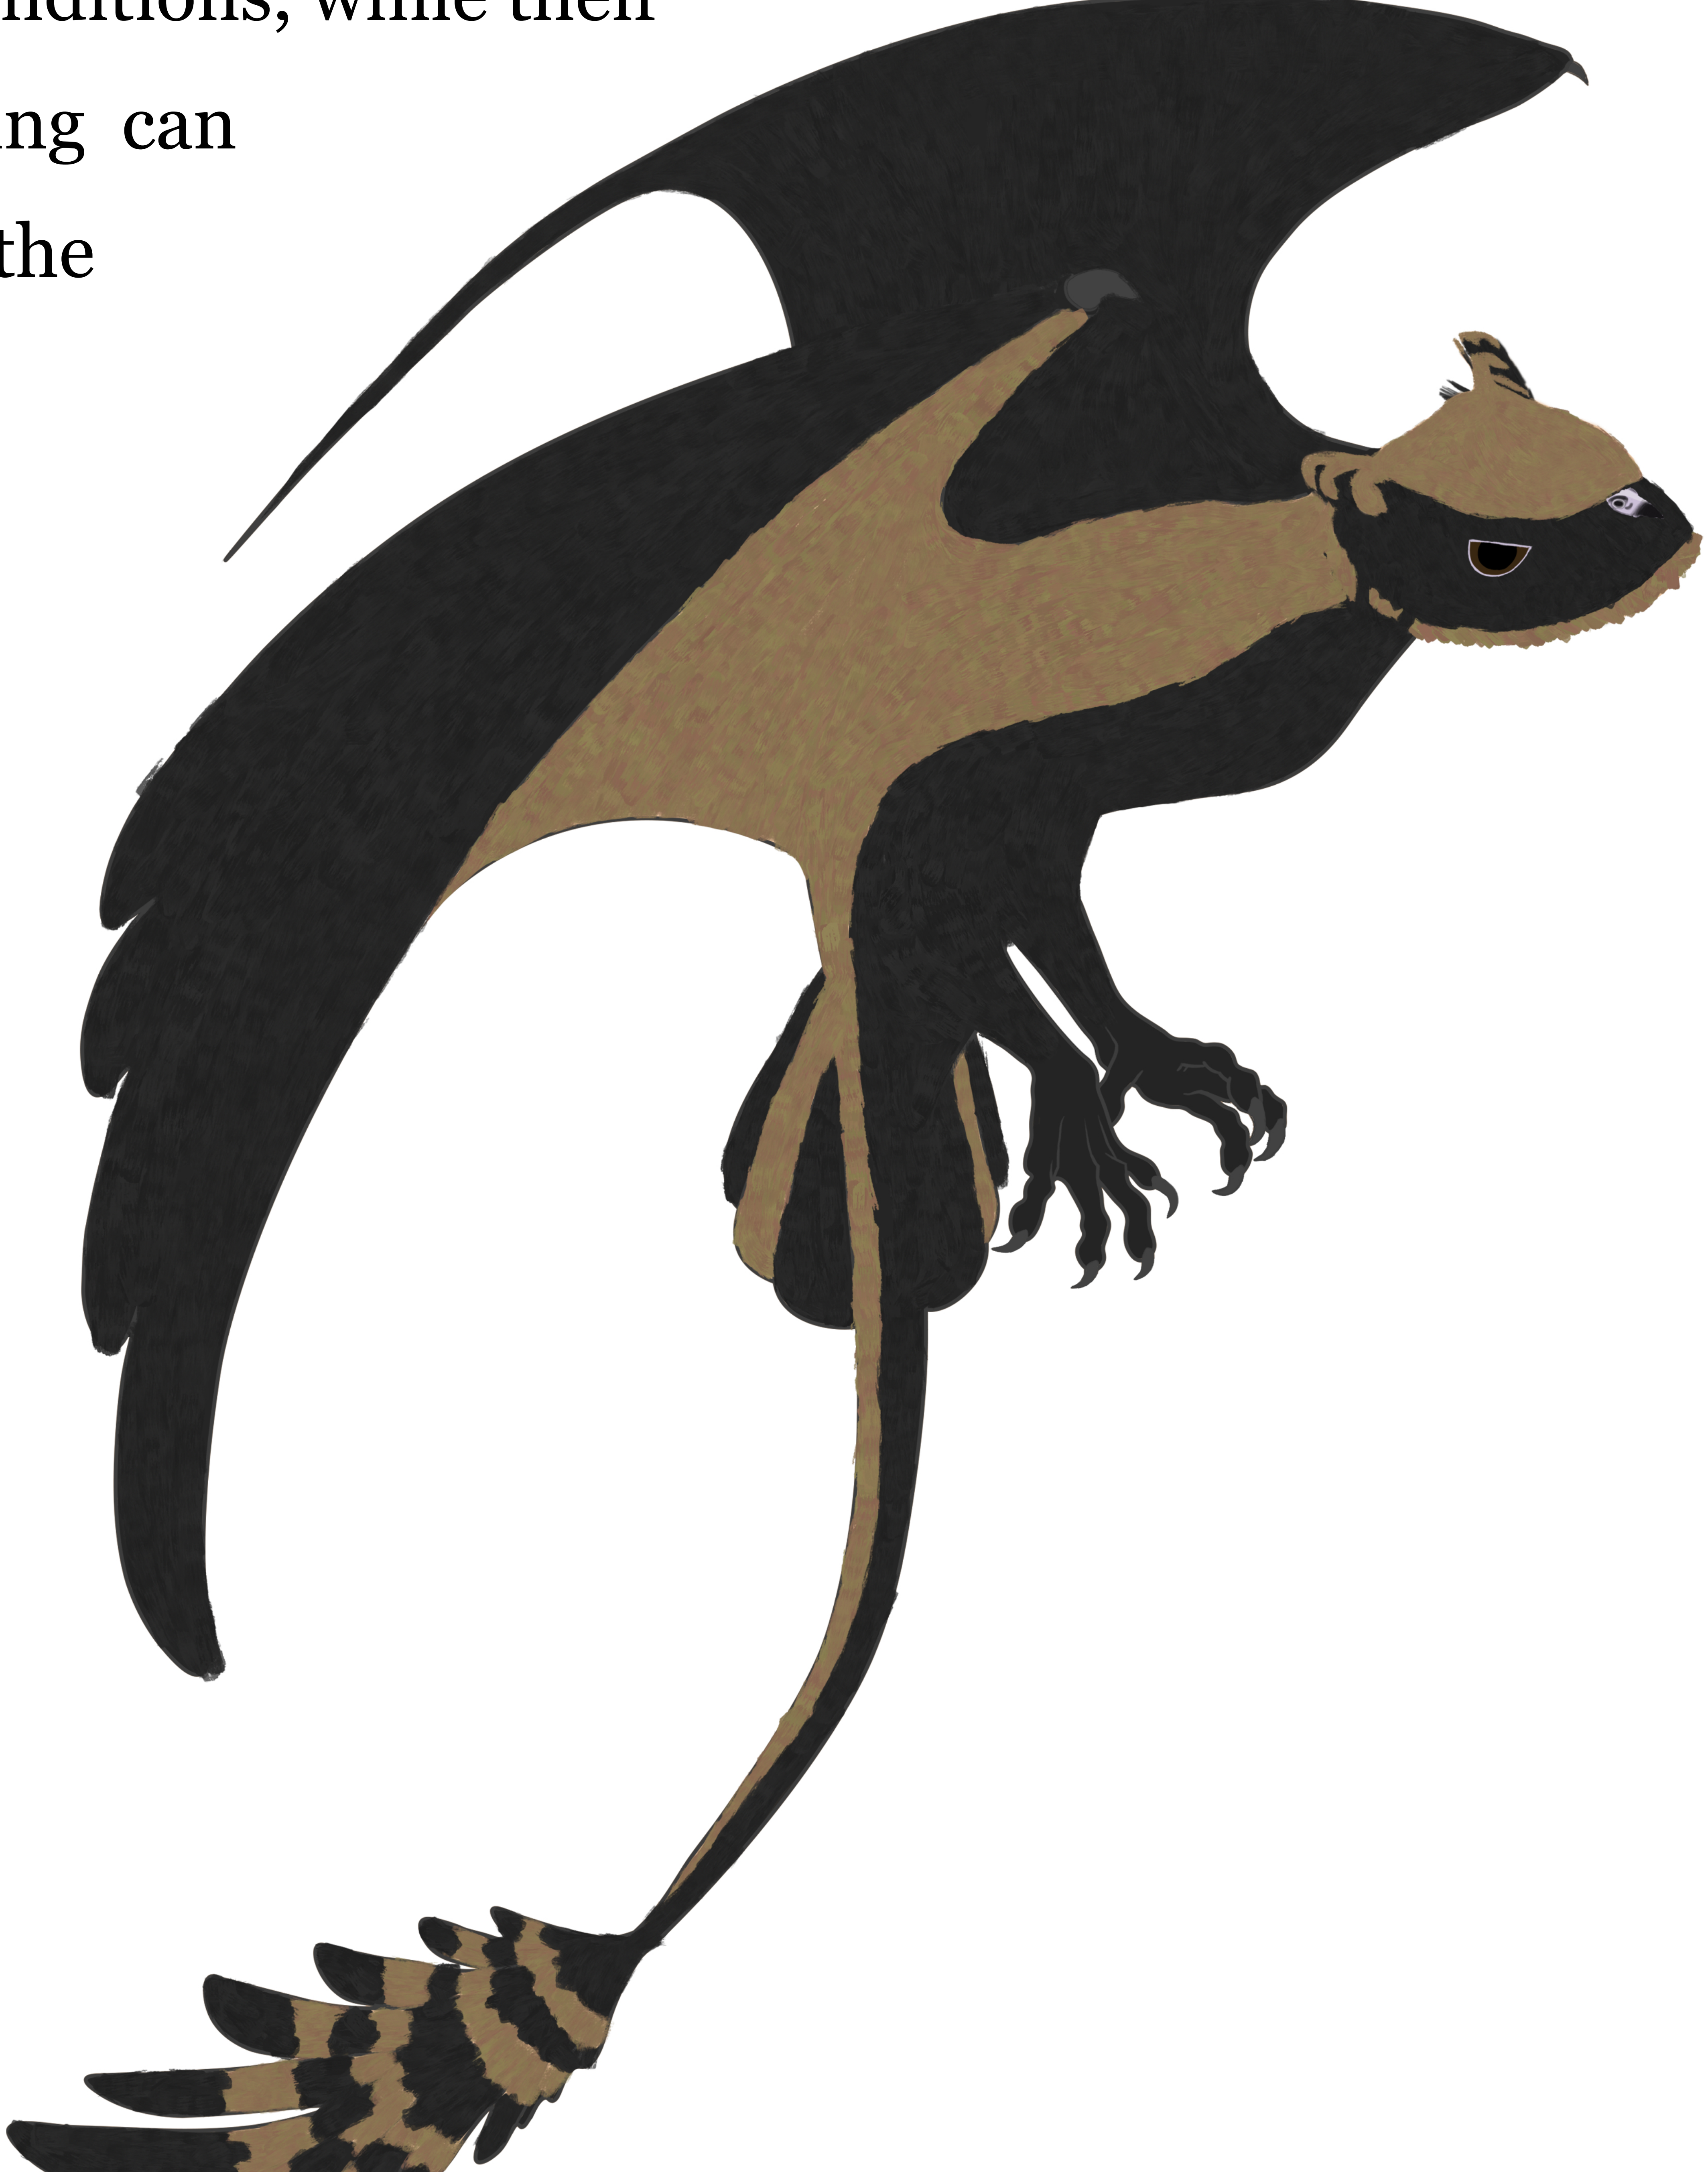
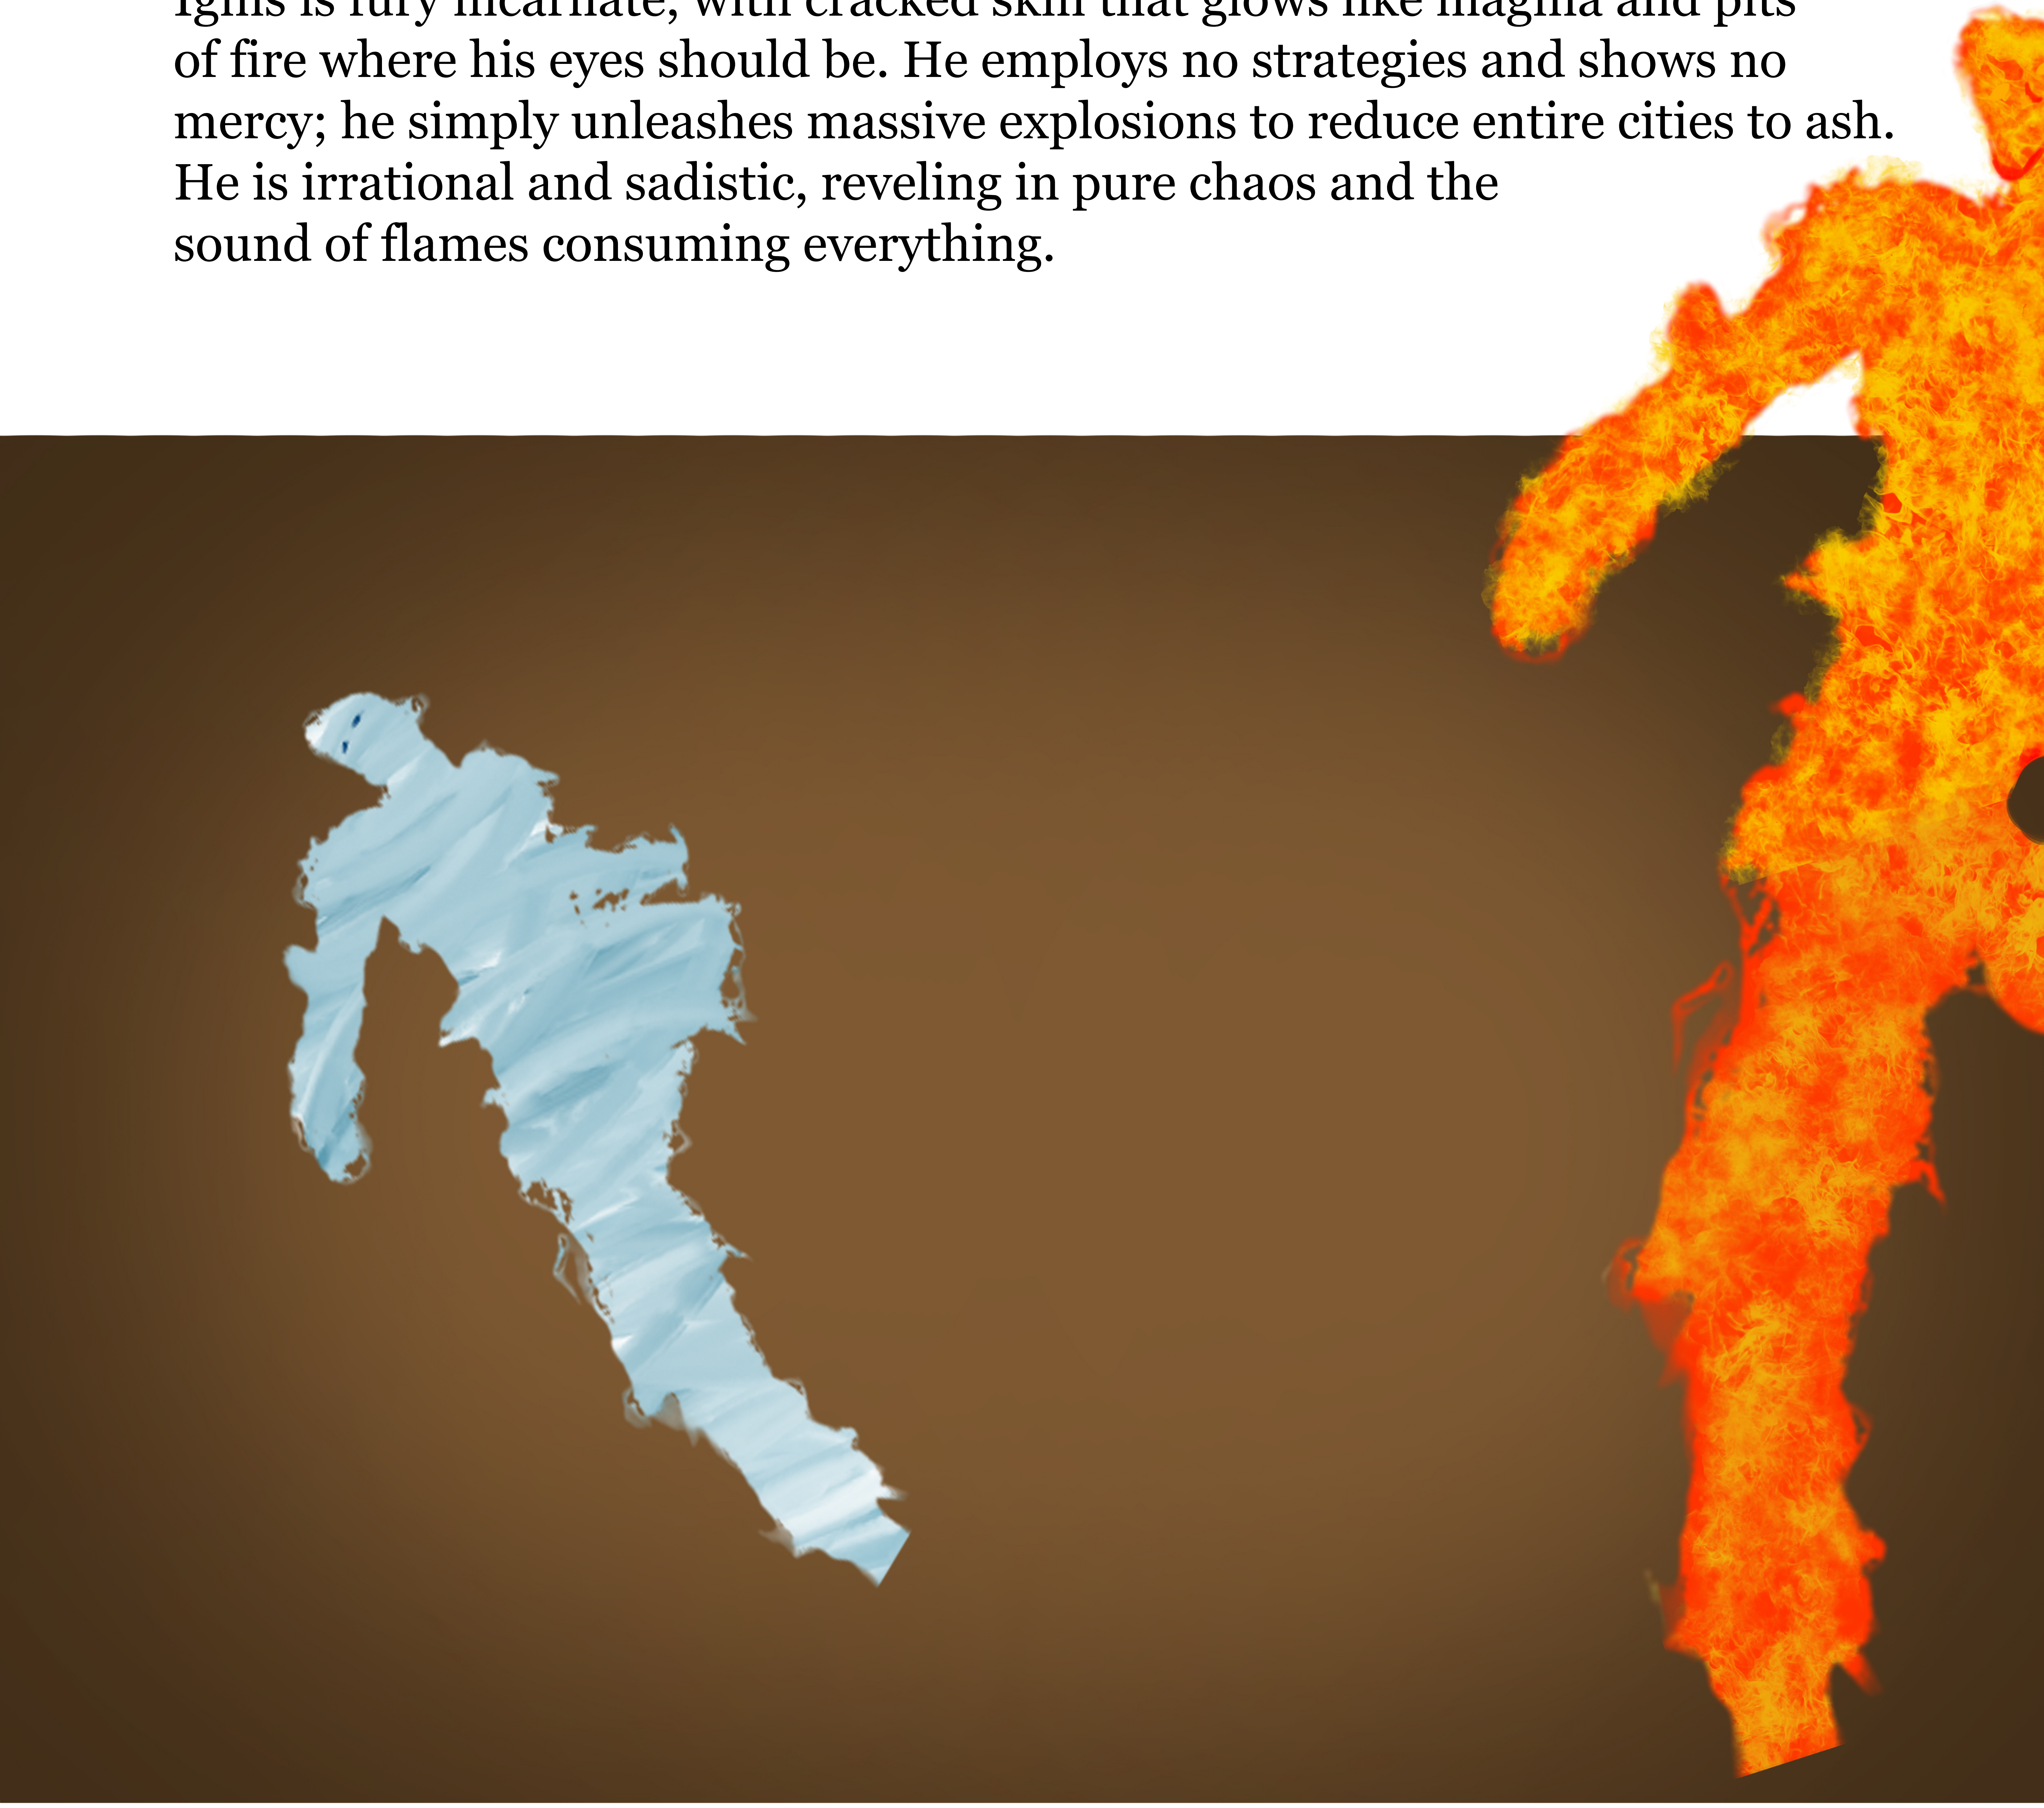
NIGHTJAR

A super-adorable little creature that rules the night, as night falls they transform into expert hunters, their large eyes allow them to see in low-light conditions, while their sensitive hearing can locate prey in the darkness.



Ignis is fury incarnate, with cracked skin that glows like magma and pits of fire where his eyes should be. He employs no strategies and shows no mercy; he simply unleashes massive explosions to reduce entire cities to ash. He is irrational and sadistic, reveling in pure chaos and the sound of flames consuming everything.

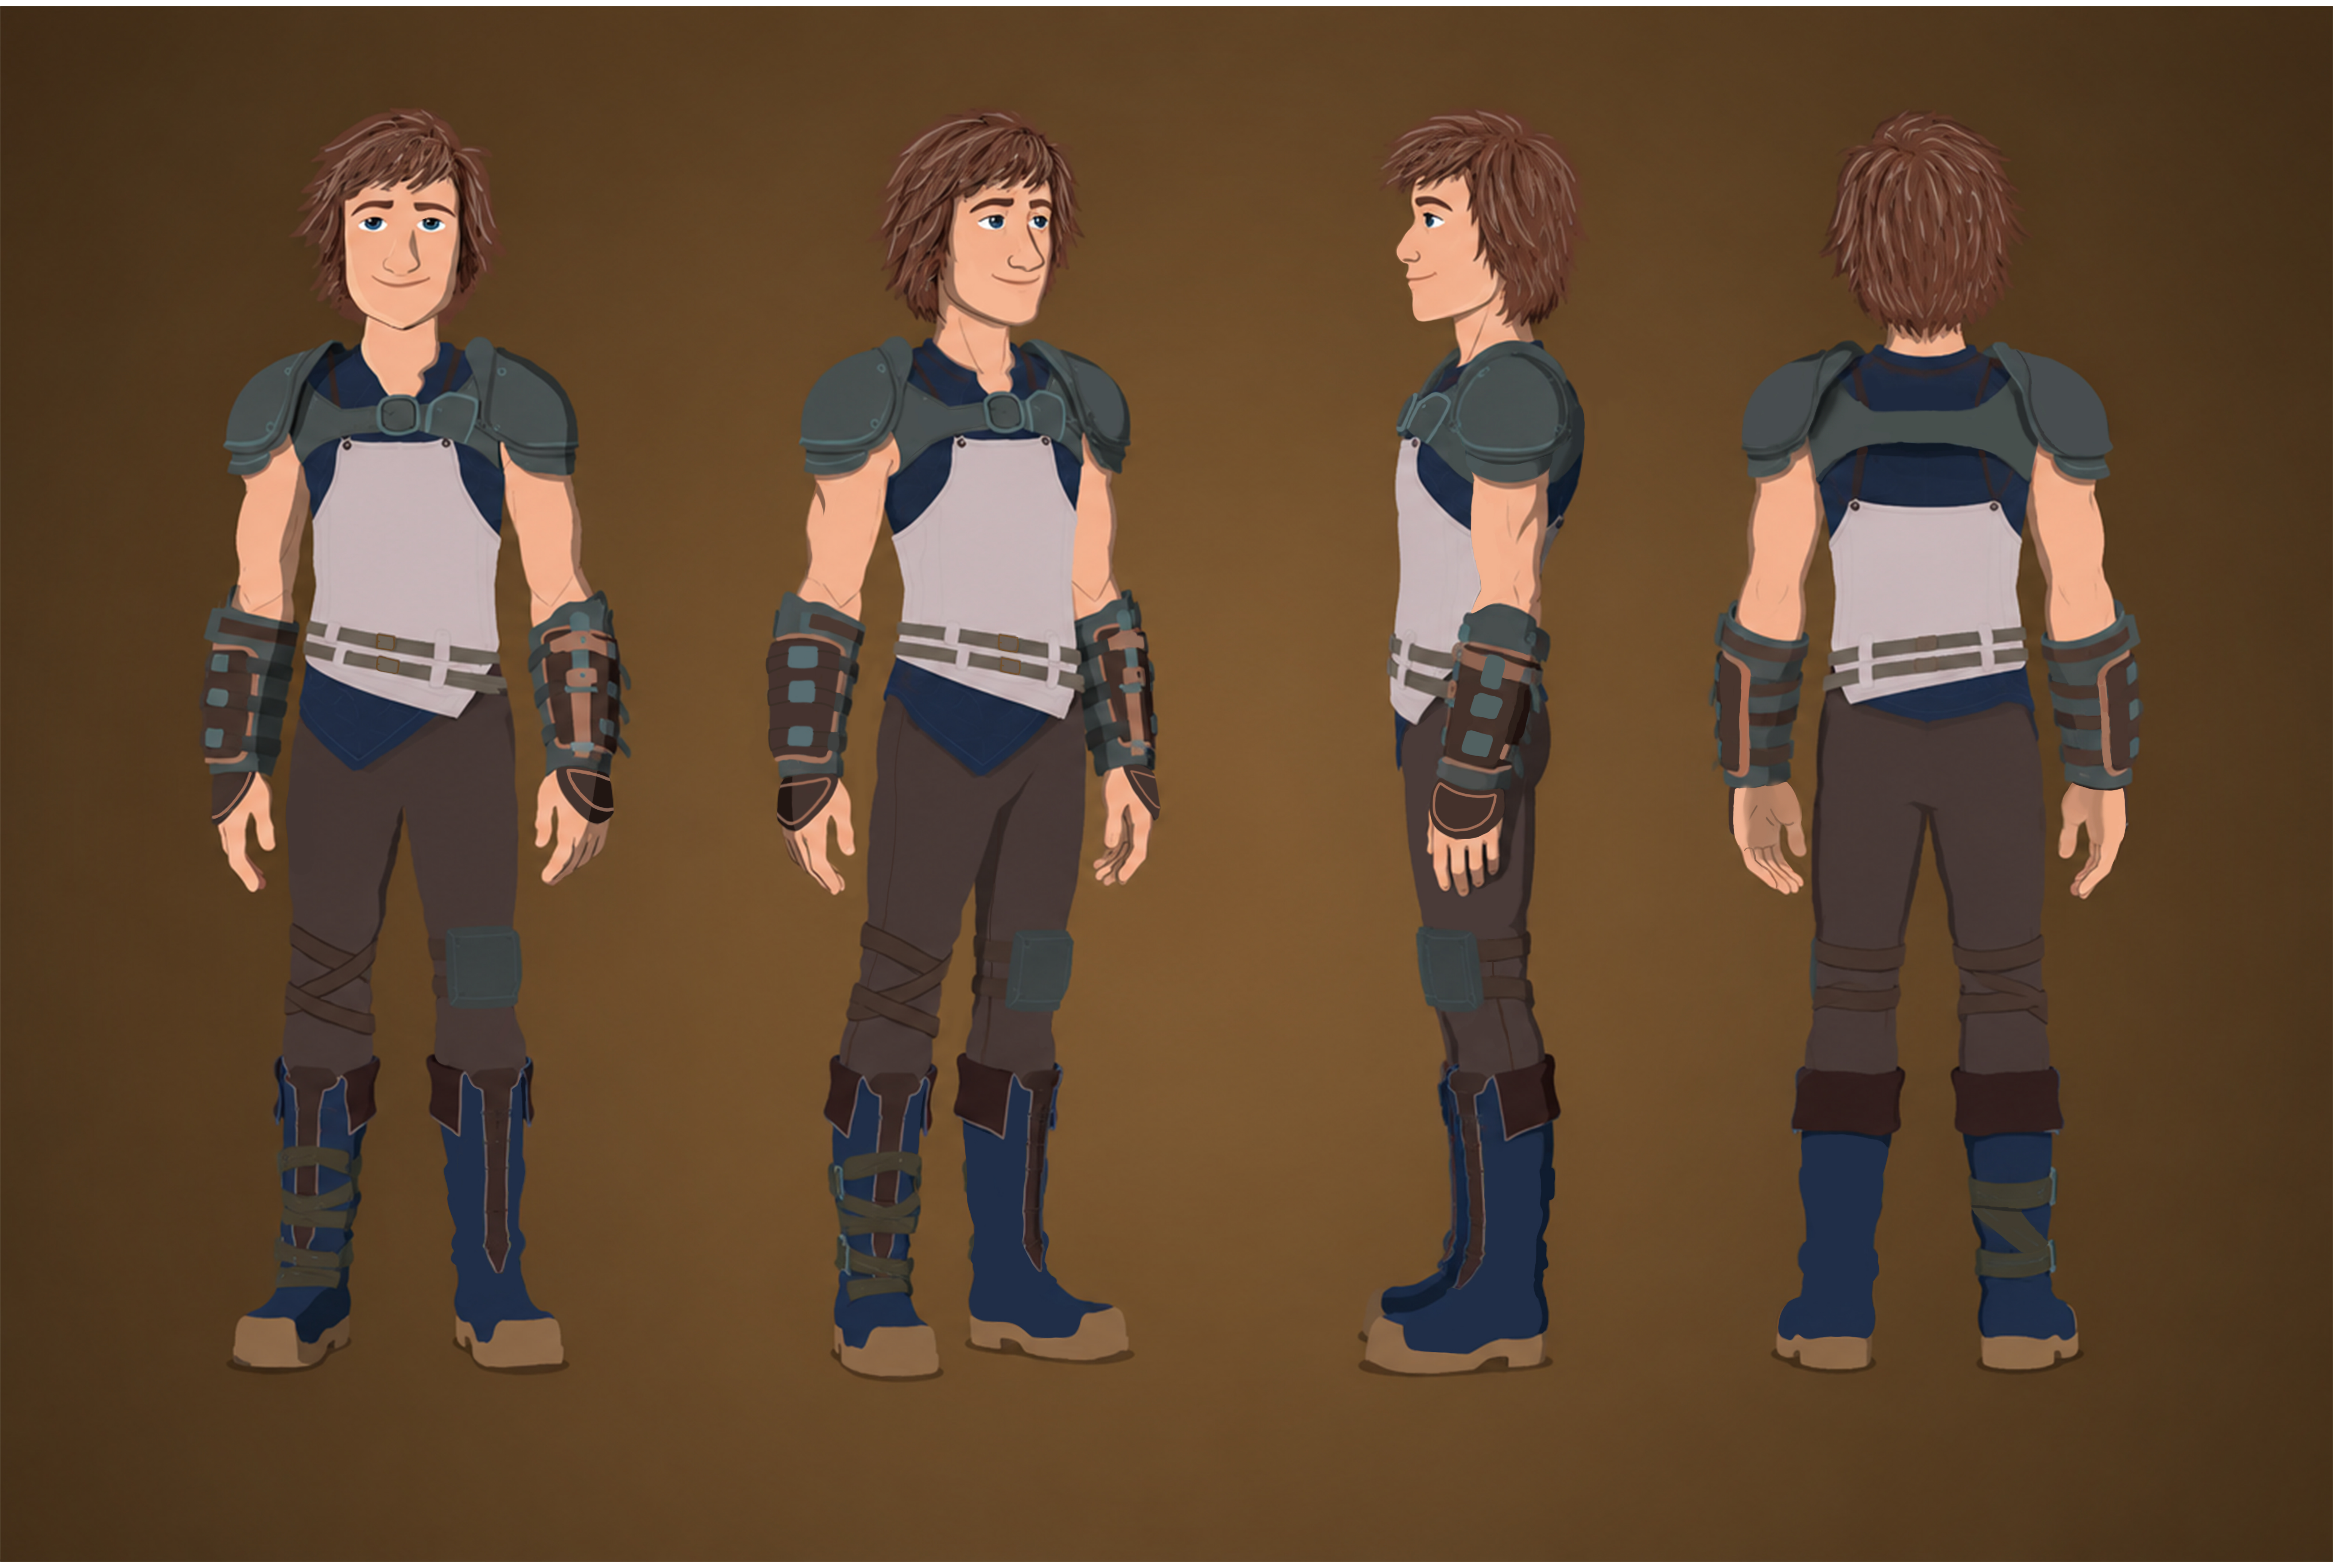


Zephyrus is an arrogant and elusive being who constantly levitates, surrounded by cutting breezes. He manipulates the air to summon destructive tornadoes or crush his enemies by altering atmospheric pressure. Believing himself untouchable, he delights in tossing his victims through the air as if they were mere toys.

Aethel is cold and elegant, like the depths of the sea, possessing a beauty that is both unsettling and calculating. She commands water to perfection, able to instantly freeze her enemies or suffocate them using the moisture in the air itself. Patient and ruthless, she drowns all hope with a completely silent cruelty.

Kaelen

Kaelen is a blacksmith who commands respect through his physical strength and strategic mind, yet his most lethal weapon is his dragon Nightjar. He is a noble man who has mastered the art of war, but whose sole desire is to protect the innocent and build peace.



Valeria

Valeria is agile and resilient. She does not fight out of a lack of fear, but because her protective instinct is stronger than any threat. Her blue eyes radiate absolute determination as she consistently leads the front line to defend her own.
